

Anna Kaelin is the real deal possessing more than her fair share of beauty and musical talent, and is one of the most gifted country singers in the industry.

She's a talented songwriter, which is displayed internationally in Dance, Dance, Revolution (DDR) games, and in addition to her appearances on FOX's "American Idol" and NBC's "The Voice" is currently wowing audiences in Nashville and around the world.

Growing up in a musical family full of siblings, parents, and cousins who sing and play instruments, she was exposed to music and the world of entertainment at a young age. Living in a home, which was converted into a recording studio and theater, she literally grew up on stage and in the recording booth.

Appearing on dozens of albums before graduating high school she became a voting member of the Christian Pearl Awards as well as on the fast track for a life in the entertainment industry. She is currently sponsored by M.A.C. Cosmetics, CHI hair products, and can be seen on the cans of "Vietti Chili" in grocery stores across the U.S.

Whether on the road, or around Nashville, Anna performed over 100 times last year and is looking forward to an even more "show filled" year this year!

In addition to her musical talent she can be seen working with several non-profit organizations around the Nashville area and is currently a board member for the longest running community theater organization.

Her devotion to helping others and passion for music, along with her matchless vocals definitely makes her one to watch. Keep up to date with all she is doing and where she will be performing on her website and social media pages.
